

Candy for Breakfast

Audio CD Section 4: Expanded Story

(Page 12) It is seven o'clock in the morning. May is still sleeping. Her mother comes into the bedroom and says, "Wake up May. It's Monday. It's a school day. Come and eat breakfast." May opens her eyes and yawns.

(Page 14) May gets out of bed, puts on her slippers and walks into the kitchen. She is still wearing her pajamas. "Good morning Mom," says May. "What time is it? It's seven o'clock. It's nearly time for school." May is still a little sleepy.

(Page 16) "What do you want for breakfast May?" May knows just what she wants. She stands on a chair, reaches up, and gets a jar of candy bars off the shelf.

"I'm very hungry," says May. She opens the jar and takes one out. "Can I have a candy bar, please?"

(Page 18) "You can't have a candy bar for breakfast. May," says her mother. "Candy is too sweet." She picks up a bowl of delicious green apples. She knows apples are good for May. "Do you want an apple?" she asks.

(Page 20) May puts the candy jar back on the shelf. "No, Mom, I don't like apples." She reaches up and gets another jar off the shelf. She smiles, and asks, "Can I have some cookies for breakfast, please?" Cookies for breakfast? Mmmmm delicious!

(Page 22) Mom just shakes her head and says, "Cookies are too sweet. They're not good for you." She takes out a big box of cereal. "Do you want a bowl of cereal?" She knows that milk and a bowl of cereal are good for May.

(Page 24) May just shakes her head and says, "No, I don't like cereal. I'm very hungry, Mom." She sees a big cake on the counter. May likes cake. She licks her lips and picks up a knife. "Can I please have some cake?"

(Page 26) Mom looks at May and shakes her head. "Cake is too sweet. You can't have cake for breakfast, May." Her mother cuts a slice of bread and puts it in the toaster. "Do you want some toast?" she asks. May isn't very happy.

(Page 28) "No, Mom, I don't like toast." May has another idea. She goes to the freezer, opens the door, and takes out a tub of ice cream. "Can I have ice cream with chocolate sauce for breakfast?" Ice cream and chocolate sauce for breakfast? Mmmmm delicious!

(Page 30) Mom looks at May and shakes her head. "Ice cream is not good for your teeth, May." No candy, no cookies, no cake, and no ice cream with chocolate sauce for breakfast. "Do you want some pancakes?" asks Mom.

(Page 32) "Yes please, Mom. Pancakes with chocolate sauce." "OK, May. You can today, but not every day." May is very happy. She doesn't like apples for breakfast. She doesn't like cereal, and she doesn't like toast. She likes pancakes and delicious chocolate sauce. What do you like for breakfast?

Audio CD Section 4: Expanded Story

(Page 38) This is a story about a little boy named James. One day his mother says, “Come on, James. Let’s go to the store.” She wants to do some shopping. She knows James likes to go shopping, too. “Can I buy some candy, please?” asks James. “OK.” Now you know why James likes to go shopping. James and his mother drive to the store.

(Page 40) In the supermarket, Mother tells James what they need to buy. “We need to buy apples, bananas, bread, eggs, juice, milk, and rice. James, can you get the milk and juice, please?” James wants to help his mother. If he helps her, she will buy him some candy. So James goes to look for the juice and the milk.

(Page 42) James walks around in the store. “Juice and milk. Juice and milk. Juice and milk,” he says to himself. A-ha! James finds a carton of juice and picks it up. Just then he sees something, “Oh, look. What is that? It is a balloon!” There is a big beautiful balloon in the window. “I want it.” He runs out of the store to catch the balloon.

(Page 44) Back in the supermarket, Mother has the apples, eggs, bananas and rice in her basket. She is looking for James. “Oh, no! Where is James?” she says. “Who is James?” asks a friendly woman. “He is my son. He has black hair.” She looks everywhere for James. She cannot find him. Where is James? Mother is very worried.

(Page 46) Outside, James is running after the balloon. The wind is blowing, and James cannot catch the balloon. “Oh, no! I cannot get it.” The wind blows the balloon away. Suddenly, James remembers, “Juice and milk.” Oh-oh! He looks around for the supermarket and his mother. “Where is Mom?” he says, “Where am I? I am lost.”

(Page 48) James is lost and afraid. He walks into a store. He sees a nice old lady in the store. She is the shopkeeper. “Hello.” says James. “Hello,” says the old lady “What’s wrong?” “I cannot find my mommy.” James tells the lady about his mother, the juice and milk, and the balloon. He is afraid, but he doesn’t cry. James is a brave boy.

(Page 50) “Oh dear!” says the old lady. “Don’t worry.” She wants to help James. She points to the police station. “Come on,” she says “Let’s go to the police station.” She takes James’s hand. Before they cross the street, they look left, and right, and left again. There are no cars coming, so they walk across the street to the police station.

(Page 52) In the police station, they meet a nice police officer. He is sitting behind his desk. His job is to help people. Can he help James? James looks at the police officer. “Good morning” says the police officer. “What’s the matter?” “I’m lost,” says James. “I cannot find my mommy.” He is still a little afraid.

(Page 54) The police officer asks James some questions. “What is your name?” “James Lee.” “How old are you?” “I am seven years old.” James tells the officer about his mother, the juice and milk, the balloon and the kind shopkeeper. The police officer writes everything down in his notebook. The old lady and the officer smile. James is not afraid anymore. He smiles, too.

(Page 56) “What is your telephone number, James?” asks the police officer. James is happy because he can remember his telephone number. “It is 357642.” The officer writes the number in his notebook. He picks up the telephone. “Let’s call your mother.” “Three, five, seven, six, four, two.” The police officer talks to James’s mother. He tells her that James is at the police station. He is not lost. He is safe. (Page 58) Mother comes to the police station. She is so happy to see James. “James! Are you OK?” she says. “Yes, mommy.” says James happily. “I am not lost.” Mother looks at the old lady and the police officer. “Thank you so much!” she says. The old lady and the police officer are happy. “You’re welcome!” All’s well that ends well. James and his mother go back to the supermarket. Do you know what they are going to buy?
